WILLIAM H. HESSLER

FOREIGN EDITOR AND EDITORIAL WRITER OF

THE CINCINNATI ENQUIRER

Besides being with one of the mid-West's most influential newspapers, Hessler is also a commentator on WLW, Cincinnati radio station. During the war, he served as a lieutenant commander aboard a U. S. Navy aircraft carrier. His articles have appeared in the authoritative "Proceedings of the Naval Institute." Mr. Hessler has just written a new book called "Operation Survival", a strategic analysis of the worth of our present policy of depending on the atom bomb and strategic bombardment (by B-36s) as the major weapons in the cold war against Russia. (to be published by Prentice-Hall)

TELEVISION ..... The Overseas Press Club television program on Sunday, October 9th, at 5 P.M. will feature Barbara Castle, Labor MP who is here at the United Nations as part of the UK Delegation; ALEX FAULKNER, of the London Daily Telegraph Bureau in New York and JOHN CHABOT SMITH, editorial staff of the N.Y. Herald Tribune. EMCEE LOUIS LOCHNER will steer the discussion of the Labor Government of England.

WILLIAM F. BROOKS, vice president of NBC, will leave this week for a three weeks vacation and news survey in Europe.

ARTHUR SETTEL, Officer of Public Information in Germany, has compiled a book "This Is Germany," which will be published the early part of the year by William Sloane. The contributors include 22 U.S. and British correspondents, the majority of whom have been in Germany two or three years. General Clay has written a preface to the book, which he describes as "must reading" for those who wish to understand the German problem. SETTEL got the idea from the Overseas Press Club books. Following is the table of contents:

JOHN EVANS of the Associated Press in Mexico is in New York on a short vacation.. IRIS CARPENTER AKERS has resigned from the London Daily Mail and has taken over "strategic coverage" in the war of words for the State Department..... which goes to show you can't keep these women war correspondents out of trouble.

More than 140 members and their guests attended the luncheon at the Hotel Savoy Plaza for the Minister of Foreign Affairs of France, Robert Schuman. Francois Charles Roux, press attache of the Quai d'Orsay and Michel Dumont, press officer for the French delegation at the United Nations accompanied Mr. Schuman. Glimpsed around were Walter Kerr, foreign editor of the New York Herald Tribune; BEN LUCIAN BURMAN; MRS. DE ROUSSY DE SALES; FRANK HANDY of the Ypsilanti (Michigan) Free Press; ANDRE RABACHE, head of the Agence France-Presse in New York; BOB SHAPLEN of Newsweek; PAUL ELLIOTT-SMITH; LEON PEARSON of NBC; FRANK KINGDON of the New York Post and BILL and RITA VANDIVERT.

M. Schuman said that he noted a trend toward regional organization of nations as evidenced by the twelve-nation Council of Europe and the Benelux partnership in the economic field. However, the United Nations holds the over-all control and direction of such movements. The Foreign Minister said that Germany would have a great future in the new organization of Europe, but that it must be handled with care.

The speaker deplored the fact that Italy could not be a member of the UN because of the Soviet veto. He said that national and continental problems are all part of the world problem today and that security for all nations must be the goal as frontiers and barriers like the Maginot Line do not count in this modern age.
